Course Description

Please note that the following course description differs from the one offered in the course catalog.*

This course uses an integrated approach to incorporate both technical and professional aspects of digital journalism in an evolving media landscape. Students are taught how to design web logs (“blogs”) and integrate multimedia content. Skills sets including media writing, design, videography, interviewing, and networking are developed over the duration of the course. Current issues in journalism are also discussed on a weekly basis.

Course Objectives

1. To improve media literacy.
2. To instill a critical perspective about issues relating to journalism.
3. To familiarize students with practice of digital journalism.
4. To familiarize students with the practice of blogging.

Anticipated Learning Outcomes

1. The ability to demonstrate a proficiency in media literacy through describing the technical and aesthetic considerations related to digital journalism.
2. The ability to think critically about the economic and social pressures that shape journalism.
3. The ability to demonstrate knowledge of the practice of journalism.
4. The ability to research, write, read and produce blog podcasts.

Methods of Instruction

1. Lecture: A brief introduction to assignments and discussion topics.
2. Audio-Visual Presentations: Short presentations that are focused on a relevant topic and intended to provoke discussion.
3. Class Discussion: Full group discussion of topics related to blogs, media presentations, and news.
4. Workshop Sessions: Production workshops with instruction on blog podcasting.

Required Textbooks

Always bring a NOTEBOOK and PEN to class for taking notes.

Course Requirements

1. Attendance: Students are expected to attend all class meetings.
2. Participation: Students are expected to update their blogs every week and come to class prepared to engage in constructive criticism.
3. Blog Podcasting: Students are expected to research, write, read, and produce bi-weekly blog podcasts demonstrating their knowledge of theories and techniques learned in class.

Evaluation and Grading

1. Attendance Policy: All students are entitled to two unexcused absences from class. Beyond this single absence, 1/3 of a grade will be deducted from the final grade for each additional unexcused absence (e.g. B- reduced to C+). Excused absences are accepted only if accompanied by documentation relating to the nature of the excuse (e.g. auto repair receipt, doctor’s note, jury duty notification, etc.).
2. Lateness: Roll is taken at the beginning of the class as the attendance sheet is circulated. Students who are late must sign in at the end of class and be marked late. Three late arrivals are equal to one absence.
3. Participation: As stated above, students are expected to update their blogs every week and come to class prepared to engage in constructive criticism. A minimum of 5 contributions are expected each week. Additional contributions will be added as half points to the final grade and deficient contribution points will be subtracted as half points from the final grade. For example, if a student has a final test average of 77%, but six contributions above and beyond the quota, the student will have earned an 80%. If that same student has a deficit of six points below the quota, the student will have earned a 74%.

4. Negative Participation: The following behavior is prohibited in the classroom: sleeping, use of electronic devices, offensive language, remarks, and/or actions. Students who sleep or use electronic devices in class risk reduction of their final grade by 1/3 for each offense. Students who make offensive remarks and/or actions risk failure and expulsion from the course in line with the regulations set forth in the Student Code of Conduct.
5. Blog Podcasts: Students must open a Blogger and YouTube account and use them to produce weekly blog posts. Specific Requirements are outlined in Appendix A.
